“A Sunday on La Grande Jatte”

Volunteer project notes:

Please refer to any notes included in this folder.

The artist's work should have been hanging in the classroom for at least a week before this lesson.

Email parents a week before to ask if any family has anything interesting to add to the lesson.

Bring artwork in the class (if not there already) for the discussion and lesson.

In the Art Appreciation bin in the PTA office there is biographical information on the artist, as well as smaller versions of the artist's other works. There are examples of projects you can choose from to have the students do you are always welcome to create your own.

The most popular project for this lesson is to for the kids to create their own Pointillism project using one of the pre-printed coloring sheets, q-tips, and paint.

Make sure you have the appropriate amount of supplies for the class.

Please don't forget to do a note to the parents explaining the art and lesson.
